Helpful Information:

What is APO/FPO?

This is a military designated address that allows mail to be delivered to overseas locations at domestic rates. The format for a military address according to US Postal Service FAQ page:

Instead of a city and state, these addresses use APO (Army Post Office) or FPO (Fleet Post Office), along with "AE" (mail going to Europe, the Middle East, Africa, and portions of Canada), "AP" (the Pacific) and "AA" (for the Americas and portions of Canada). Therefore, the bottom line of overseas military addresses is: APO or FPO; followed by AE, AP, or AA; and then the ZIP Code.
